London, Sept. 14—Uncompromising nature of the Sinn Fein note which was delivered to Premier Lloyd George at Inverness yesterday has put a new obstacle in the way of Irish peace but official circles were confident today it would be overcome.

BRONZE MEMORIAL TABLETS ARE SET

PLACED ON PILLARS AT ENTRANCES TO MEMORIAL AVE.

GIVES NAMES OF DEAD

Money Left Over From Soldier Dinner Is Given to Committee—to Erect Bronze Lamps

"In memory of the men from Nodaway County, Missouri, who gave their lives in the great World War, 1914-1918," reads an inscription placed last week on each of the four granite pillars at the entrances to Memorial Drive. On the two pillars at the east entrance, below this inscription, have been placed larger bronze tablets with the names of the men who made the supreme sacrifice.

The four small tablets, each of which bears the same inscription, are decorated with shield and laurel leaf. The two larger tablets also have the laurel leaf border. They are of the finest statuary bronze, and cost $585. Express brought the total cost to $593.

For each of the names on the bronze tablets, a tree has been planted along the drive. Some of the trees have died, but they have been replanted, and the committee will continue to replant them until there is a living tree for each of the soldier dead.

The names of Nodaway County's heroes, as they appear on the tablets, are as follows:

Leo T. Ashford, William James Brady, Frank C. Bradley, Walter Lonzo Bradley, Toney William Bears, Floyd Virgil Colter, Chester Martin Crain, Seth Ray David, Rolla A Dicks, Alvin Marion Dunn, Wilbur H Dowis, J. B. Farnan, William B. Flanigan, Dale Frankum, Dale Cecil Gates James Edward Gray, Arthur T. Graves, James Harvey Hughes, Vern Heflin, Roy Houchens, Roy David Hunterson, Francis M. Johnson, Carl C. Killion, John P. Kuntzman, Roy Hartman Kent, James William Keith, Hary W. Pasley, Harry W. Lapsley, Russel C. Laughlin, Ira J. MCullom, Alfred Clemens Meyer, John James M'Gary, Otto L. Mowry, Robert O'Howell, Carl Richard Oglesby, David P. Parmlee, Warren W. Reaksecker, Julius Strueby, Jr., Joseph B. Schwebach, Henry F. Stewart, James F. Smith, Emmett Ripley, Glen Dee Ulmer, Virgil A. Wiles, Frank M. Wiley, William Van Fossen.

Bronze electric lamps are yet to be placed on the pillars. They will also be of the best bronze and finest workmanship and will cost about $480. Two lamps will be placed on each of the pillars, one on each side. They will probably be put in place this fall, but it is not known whether funds will be available for the electric wiring, which must be laid under ground and will be very costly.

After the lamps are placed, the Memorial Avenue committee of which Mrs. Charles T. Bell is chairman, hopes to make arrangements to keep them lighted in memory of the boys. The cost of maintenance will be $10 or $12 a month.

The fund for the Memorial Avenue was raised by the Daughters of the American Revolution, who gave $500. An additional $500 was raised in the town and county, and $1,000 secured from the state. The cost of the pillars was $725, the bronze tablets cost $593, the lamps $480 and wiring and other expenses will require several hundred more than the original fund. Arrangements have not been completed for securing the added amount.

After the soldiers' dinner given at the reunion here last Wednesday, about $75 was left in the hands of the committee, of which Mrs. J. B. Robinson was chairman. The committee, composed of representatives of the various patriotic organizations of the city, voted to turn over the money to the Memorial Avenue committee. They wish to thank the citizens of Maryville and the county whose liberal donations made the dinner such a success.

Mrs. Lucy Blakeman, telephone operator at Orrsburg, has returned from a vacation visit with relatives in Ridgeway.

Mrs. Jesse F. Robertson went to St. Joseph this morning to spend the day.

Lawrence Schumacher left this morning for St. Joseph after spending a few days here with his father, N. Schumacher, and family.

FIGURES INDICATE LARGE ENROLLMENT

COLLEGE HAS MORE STUDENTS THAN SAME TIME LAST YEAR.

WILL PROBABLY BE 300

Sprong Finds Good Material for Football Squad—Lamkin to Funeral of Brother-in-Law.

Enrollment at the State Teachers College for the fall quarter, which opened yesterday, is already greater than it was at the end of September last year, according to Murray Welling, treasurer. At 3 o'clock it was within eight of equaling the enrollment during the entire term last year.

In the first month last year, 215 students were enrolled in the College. In the first two days this year, 243 paid incidental fees to Mr. Welling. There is always a straggling enrollment during the term, which is expected to bring the total number of students this fall to more than 300. The enrollment figures based on the number who have paid incidental fees does not include vocational students, whose expenses are paid by the United States government. There are several of these war veterans already here to take courses in the College, and several others have been assigned to come here.

Class work at the College began this morning, but the work of enrolling students was continuing in the registrar's office. Many students go first to the College, where they choose the courses they will take, before paying their fees.

Examinations for entrance or advance standing will be given at the College next Saturday.

Coach Russell Sprong put a squad of twenty-six men through a hard workout on the College field yesterday afternoon. Practically all of them had played high school football, but it will be the last of next week before the first scrimmage can be held, according to the new coach. Drill in fundamentals will continue all this week.

President Uel, W. Lamkin left yesterday afternoon for Clinton, Mo., to attend the funeral services of Mrs. Lamkin's brother, Mr. Dickerson, who was killed while in service overseas. The services are being held in Clinton this afternoon. He was the son of former Congressman Dickerson.

Mr. Lamkin is expected to return to Maryville tomorrow or Friday, and will be accompanied by Mrs. Lamkin and son. The Lamkins' household furniture has been moved into the College residence and they expect to be located there within the next several days.

U. L. Burdick has resigned as president of the North Dakota Farm Bureau Federation in order to devote all his time to the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc. He is succeeded by Hans Georgeson, a farmer living near Nigra, Grand Forks County, N. D.

ARBUCKLE CHARGE MAY BE CHANGED

GRAND JURY REFUSES TO INDICT FOR MURDER.

MAKES IT MANSLAUGHTER

Testimony Before Coroner's Jury Favors Screen Star—Witnesses Repudiate Stories.

San Francisco, Sept. 14—Despite the fact that Fatty Arbuckle still stands charged with murder and District Attorney Brady insists he will go to trial on this charge, it was generally accepted that Arbuckle will face the less serious charge of manslaughter following indictment on this score last night.

Alice Blake who was missing yesterday testified before the grand jury and Zey Pryvon returned to her original story to police and reported it to the grand jury.

Fatty Arbuckle was more nervous today than at any time since his arrest as he appeared at inquest this afternoon into the death of Virginia Rappe, with whose murder he is charged. Several times while waiting for the witnesses to be called he pulled out a sheaf of telegrams and read some of them. He moved his head nervously and his hands were constantly in motion.

San Francisco, Sept. 14—A true bill charging Roscoe Arbuckle with manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe was voted late last night by the San Francisco county grand jury.

The vote of the grand jurors, it was reported, was 12 to 2 for a manslaughter true bill.

The action by the grand jury followed the adjournment of the coroner's jury late today, in which testimony highly favorable to Arbuckle had been given.

Mrs. Jean Jameson, a nurse, whose affidavit was the primary cause for the charge of murder against Roscoe Arbuckle in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, gave evidence before the coroner's jury which attorneys for the actor had declared would insure his acquittal.

She testified that Miss Rappe told her before she died that she did not know whether she had been assaulted and that she had been suffering for six weeks from an ailment for which she blamed alleged relations with "her sweetheart."

Together with this testimony, Mrs. Bambino Maud Delmont, another member of the party, repudiated former statements that she had seen Arbuckle drag the woman to his room and that Miss Rappe had told her that he had torn her clothes from her body.

Al Semnacher, manager for Miss Rappe, also gave testimony favorable to Arbuckle.

Bates county farmers have adopted the community crusher plan for obtaining lime and they are getting the rock at about $1 per ton, which is a saving of about $2 on each ton they use.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

FIFTY YEARS AGO

(Items Taken from the Nodaway Democrat Issue of Sept. 13, 1871)

We learn that Eliphus George has offered 20 cents per bushel for corn cribbed in the field.

There was a petition circulating last week, petitioning the town council to pass an ordinance prohibiting horses running at large on the streets in Maryville. This is a good move, as we noticed on last Saturday four or five loose horses annoying persons from the country, who had goods in their wagons. One flour sack was torn open. It is proposed to put them up in a stable, and make the owner pay the costs and charges. A good law—let us have it.

John Lieber and George S. Baker were elected by from ten to fifteen majority, over I. N. Albin and John M. Bell, for school board directors.

On last Saturday bids were received at the postoffice for carrying the mail from the postoffice to the depot once a day. We don't see why we cannot have the mail delivered twice a day. As the matter now stands, and will under the new contract, mail that goes north must go down to the depot in the morning, go to St. Joseph, and then go north on the evening train. This is all wrong, and there certainly is a remedy.

The City Hotel has changed hands, James W. Davis retiring to give place to Sam Lutes and Mr. Ruby of St. Joseph. The change went into effect last Monday morning.

The Prather sale of colts at Chicago last week was very satisfactory. One colt brought $475, another $400, and others good prices.

One of the largest real estate deals made in this county in recent years was made through the real estate agency of W. F. Smith, when Capt. E. E. Townsend sold his magnificent 520 acre farm to John M. Evans, the consideration being $22,360. This is one of the best farms in northwest Missouri.

J. R. Brink says we have had two and sixty-five hundredths inches of rain since last Sunday evening.

Jesse Hogan, John Keeler, Will Sawyers and Shepherd Leffler have gone to Columbia and will attend the State University the coming year. Others from here who will attend after the street fair are: Forrest Donnell, Fred Storm, Paul McMillan and John Evans.

Ed Forsyth is building another story to his business house which has been only one story before.

The annual conference of the M. E. Church, South, which was held at St. Joseph, adjourned Tuesday forenoon. The people of Maryville are glad that Rev. C. W. Webdell is returned here. He is an able young minister.

The Democrat will be printed next week on Tuesday afternoon on account of the street fair, September 16 to 21. Many booths are now in process of erection. The parade of school children on Friday will be an imposing spectacle and will be a great feature of the fair.

Rev. S. M. Ware and W. O. Sawyers are attending the meeting of the Platte Presbytery at Hamilton where it convened Tuesday.

If they keep on confiscating these little stills where will a boozer get his licker?

The Kansas City Star has requested me to write them when, where and why I was born. Also how I happened to assume the name of Sport's Cousin, ect. Next week I shall attend to this matter and answer in The Mail.

There are very few short cues to wealth.

Durn the grasshoppers!

Seems like some men like hard times as it affords 'em a good excuse for not working.

Once in a while a good man goes wrong and oh! Lord, how some people like to talk about it.

Most women consider house-keeping easy for the hired girl.

The fools always go where the crowd is even if there is nothing interesting going on there.

Paddy Magee once said that every man should wash his neck and ears every spring, and Paddy was considered a smart man.

Marriage is not always a failure. I know a married couple who are very happy, but they don't live together.

Of course all men know that they can't play with fire and not get burnt yet they will go ahead and some of them get badly burnt.

It don't do much good to advertise for a lost reputation, especially if you happen to be a woman.

Most men enjoy living so well that I doubt if airplanes ever become as popular as Fords.

If a woman is boss at home you will find canary birds and gold fish, but if the man is boss, you will see dogs around.

You can almost see the scars where they were operated on for appendicitis these warm days. What the devil are we coming to, anyhow?

Judge Douthirt looks like a woman when he gets on a nightgown and shaves right clean.

And the man who thinks he can never do any good in the town he lives in probably wouldn't do any good in any other town.

I am willing to allow anyone the privilege of changing their mind, but the girl that decides to make 'em still shorter had better be careful or people will make remarks.

And there are lots of nice seeming men that ain't got a lick of sense.

The woman who sheds tears can control her husband better than the one who uses rolling pins, stove hooks and other kitchen utensils on him.

The hot season, we hope, is broken. I predict a winter like the summer, only cold extremes and wet as thunder.

I am also ferninst these 'ear buns," powder puff, half-clad women, and think we had better go back to the days when the home was the center of social life.

They say the corn on the Missouri bottom is so tall it shades the roads and keeps 'em muddy. Shepperson, who now shoves the quill for the Tarkio Avalanche, claims they will have to have step ladders to gather it, and Charlie is a truthful man.

Many of us might do better if we could see that succes is seldom an accident.

As Fords are now getting cheaper Christmas trees will have to be a bit larger.

And a man who don't do much, but has learned a few big words will sure use 'em on every occasion he gets.

Don't get conceited when some man steps up to you and congratulates you. He may want to borrow a quarter.

A Jealous Old Maid

By MURIEL BLAIR

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Don't talk to me about Elsie Strickland—or Bonner, as she is now—my dear. If ever I had been tempted not to believe in original sin that girl's ingratitude would have convinced me. And after all I've done for that girl, to treat me the way she has!

"Of course Ralph Bonner was at the bottom of it—he and that Florence Williams. The Bonners were quite ordinary people—came here from the south, and nobody knows what they were before they came or why they had to leave their home, wherever it was.

"Elsie Strickland was a sort of cousin of mine. Her mother left her in my care when she died, and I took the girl into my home and looked after her from the time she was twelve years old. I must admit she was a good worker. I can't find any fault with her on that score. But she had common ways.

"Ralph Bonner used to call on me whenever he came home from the city. I don't know what he did there. People say I liked him, but that was just gossip. I hated him; I hate the very memory of him.

"I'm ashamed to death to tell you, but I suppose it's the only thing that will stop the neighbors saying I was in love with him.

"I can't tell you how shocked I was that that little guttersnipe Elsie Strickland should steal him from me! I spoke to the girl as kindly as I was able; I told her that the Bonners were a worthless lot and were under suspicion of having had to leave their town in the South in a hurry. I asked her if she thought any one of them worthy to wipe the shoes of a well-bred, well-brought up lady like her.

"'But I love Ralph,' said Elsie, kind of piteously.

"'The more fool you,' I answered. 'And that's more than he does you.' I went into that parlor and sat down to think. You remember that Florence Williams, who left town suddenly last year, to take a position as a stenographer her folks said, but we thought she wouldn't have left so suddenly, if there wasn't something scandalous about it? Well, I knew she'd never dare to show her face in this village again. So I wrote a letter to her from Ralph—you know I'm quite good at imitating handwriting—and in it I had a few things that I knew would put an end to that garden flirtation. I showed the letter to Elsie next morning.

"'That's how much he cares for you,' I said. 'He's playing with you, child, as he did with that poor girl. Now what are you going to do?'

"She turned so white I thought she was going to die. I had to give her ice water.

"'What ought I to do, aunt?' she asked me. I brought her up to call me ma'am in public and aunt in private. I thought it sounded more affectionate.

"'I'll dictate a letter to him that will save your pride, my dear,' I answered. And believe me, it was a stinger.

"I found out that they were engaged and he was to send for her in a few months. I knew an answer would come from him. I watched for the postman. Sure enough it came. It almost made me cry, I'm so soft-hearted; but I knew my duty and burned the letter.

"Well, no more letters came, and Elsie went 'round growing as pale and white as a ghost.

"After Labor day I knew Ralph couldn't come back for another year, and I breathed freer. I forgot all about the business, in fact.

"And then, about the middle of October, the worst came to pass. I was sitting in my little room at the back, reading, and supposing Elsie was busy doing the laundry. She had got strong again and liked to be useful to me. Suddenly there came a tap at the door and in walked Elsie, Ralph, and that Florence Williams.

"I put a bold face on the matter. I had to.

"Ralph Bonner came forward and planked a document down on the table. 'I don't care to judge you, Miss Jones,' he said. 'That's between yourself and your Maker. But you'll sign this paper or I'll have you arrested for criminal libel.'

"I remember the very words: 'I hereby acknowledge that I have forged the appended letter purporting to be from Ralph Bonner to Florence Williams,' it ran. There was a lot more to it, calling me names. But I signed it, dear. They had me trapped, you see.

"What do you think had happened? That false jade, Elsie, had gone to the Williams woman and asked her about her relations with Ralph and found out about my well-meant plan to save her. They had telegraphed for Ralph, and the three of them had put their heads together and planned the miserable conspiracy. Of course Elsie had stolen the letter out of my desk—at least, I suppose she had.

"Well, they all marched out of the house together and that was the last I saw of them. So I don't expect to see Elsie Bonner again. You see, they were married that evening, and now the poor child's under her husband's thumb completely, they tell me. But anyhow, it's a satisfaction to feel that one has done one's duty, my dear, and I shall never regret it. Besides, they'll all go to the bad, some day."

What Missouri Farmers Are Doing!

Several thousand farmers of central Missouri have visited the experiment fields of the College of Agriculture at Columbia this summer. It is significant that delegations, coming from a distance, under the auspices of Farm Bureau organizations, outnumbered the delegation from Boone County, where the fields are located. This is only another instance that demonstrates the value of organization.

From Henry County it is reported that eight pure bred Aberdeen Angus cattle died as a result of someone leaving an old paint pail containing white lead, out in the pasture where the cattle got it.

The acre-yield of wheat on the Willow Springs' experiment field this year was increased 9 bushels by the use of 175 pounds of acid phosphate per acre, according to F. L. Duley of the Missouri College of Agriculture. With wheat at 90 cents a bushel this acid phosphate is worth $8.10. If acid phosphate is worth $22 a ton the cost of soil treatment for one acre would be $1.93. This would leave a net profit of $6.17 from the use of phosphate, or an increase of 319 per cent on the money invested.

The early bird is not the only bug destroyer that is most effective when earliest; for the fall plowing that is soonest done kills the greatest number and variety of farm pests. Early fall plowing, according to A. C. Burrill of the Missouri Agricultual Extension Service, is effective as a control for wireworms, white grubs, corn root louse and cutworms, by exposing them to the winter and to their enemies before winter arrives. It is also effective for fighting grasshopper eggs, chinch bugs, Hessian fly, and green bug, by destroying their holdover in volunteer wheat, oats and sod. Likewise early plowing of wheat stubble snuffs out straw worm, joint worm and Hessian fly.

On August 29th farmers at Pilot Grove met and organized a cooperative live stock shipping association, on the same day the farmers near Speed met and after hearing a full discussion of the cooperative shipping work decided to call a later meeting at Speed and complete an organization.

September 5 the farmers at Speed made good use of "Labor Day" by meeting and organizing their cooperative shipping association. About forty Cooper County farmers were present and took the matter up in a good business like fashion. True D. Morse Secretary of the Missouri Federation of Co-operative Live Stock Shippers gave personal assistance in organizing the associations at both Speed and Pilot Grove.

J. Daniel, President of the Saline County Breeders' association has called the annual meeting for Saturday, September 10, at Marshall. Arrangements are being made for a luncheon for the members and their wives at the Goodwin hotel and R. L. Hill of Columbia has been invited to make a talk on "Better Live Stock." The association now has a membership of 87 and as soon as the number reaches 100 a directory is to be published and distributed widely. The annual membership fee is $5 of which the member is permitted to apply $2 to the development of any particular breed he may direct.

G. R. Skinner, St. Louis County's hustling agricultural agent, reports that Otto Orth, who recently purchased a small limestone pulverizer, has ordered a $2,300 machine because the small machine was not big enough to supply the demand. The small machine was installed last spring, following a demonstration, staged on Orth's farm under the direction of the county agent. St. Louis county farmers are going in strong for liming their soils.

Many Missouri newspapers recently have been publishing their "platform" or creed And, an outstanding paragraph reads: "I shall belong to and pay my dues regularly to my local, state and national editorial associations" Almost everybody but the farmer considers it a privilege to belong to his particular organization. And the farmers as a class are fast realizing that membership in their local, state and national Farm Bureau is something they need and not something that should be "sold" to them.

Farmers of Nodaway county, up in the Northwest corner of the state, are a friendly lot, as witness the following report, by a Farm Club member, of the recent picnic and baseball games held at Maryville: "Hurrah for the Farm Bureau! It carried off the honors at the Maryville county picnic ball games. It beat our Farm Club team on Thursday by a score of 7 to 6. However, we weren't the least bit 'sore' over the game as they outclassed us a little. And the next day some of the best of the Farm Club players, played on the Farm Bureau team that defeated the Farm Union team."

Ray Miller, county agent in Cass County, conducted seven poultry culling demonstrations the week of September 3. The attendance at the meetings totaled 134 farmers and of 900 hens examined, 289 were discarded as unprofitable. And all those who attended learned enough about culling to return home and cull their own flocks.

Sam Jordon and J. Kelly Wright were the principal speakers at the annual Farm Bureau picnic held last week in Randolph county.

The average liming experiments conducted in Missouri show that for every dollar invested in this way, approximately $2.75 has been returned to the owner in increased profits.

Farmers can have their soil tested for acidity free by applying to their county agents.

Farmers of Monroe county have ordered 600 tons of fertilizer through the Farm Bureau elevator at Monroe City.

The Monroe County Farm Bureau picnic will be held September 20.

The annual meeting and picnic of the Dunklin County Farm Bureau was held September 6 at the fair grounds at Kennett. C. B. Denman, director of organization for the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, headed the list of speakers. An election of officers for the ensuing year was a feature.

W. T. Angle, the new County Agent in Pettis County, has set 100 pig clubs as the goal for Pettis County this year. Mr. Angle reports that requests have been filed for 38 poultry culling demonstrations in that county.

Lucy and I looked at each other when the lawyer came to that clause in Uncle Jabez' will. We did not look straight out of the corners of our eyes. At least, I saw that Lucy was looking at me, and so I infer that she saw that I was looking at her. Then we each stared hard at the wall-paper.

"To my nephew, Arthur Bowen, the sum of $14,000 and my property on Madison avenue, consisting of the apartment house known as 'The Maple Vine,' on condition that he shall not marry the said Lucy Stokes within a period of 20 years, and the said property and capital to be held in trust for him during that period and the interest paid to him quarterly," the ferocious old fellow had written. "And to my niece, Lucy Stokes, the sum of $30,000, to be held in trust for her for 20 years following my death, and the interest to be paid to the said Lucy Stokes quarterly, contingent upon her not marrying the said Arthur Bowen. And should the aforesaid legatees marry during that period the capital and property aforementioned shall revert to the person whose name is in the possession of my lawyer, Mr. Griffins Coleworth."

It did not run exactly in this way, but that was the sum and substance of it. And the point was that Lucy and I had never wanted to marry each other.

It must have been three months later, about the time when I received the first quarterly installment, that I read the account of Mr. Richardson's marriage to Miss Bunting. Oddly enough, I experienced a sudden lightening of my emotions, as though I had been relieved of some dreadful burden. And then I understood. Although I had not been aware of it I had actually been jealous of Mr. Richardson! Yet Lucy and I were utterly incompatible in temperament as we had agreed a thousand times.

We ran across each other at Atlantic city that summer and stopped to chat.

"Dear old Uncle Jabez!" said Lucy ecstatically. "Do you know, Arthur—I don't mind confessing it to you now— at one time I positively had a sort of tender feeling toward you.

"When did this feeling possess you?" I asked her.

"Oh, ages ago," she said evasively. "Long, long before dear Uncle Jabez died. I wouldn't have told you, only —well, I may be engaged shortly."

"Who is he?" I yelled.

I don't know why it was, but I felt utterly crushed. And presently I began to realize what was the matter with me. I was in love—and with Lucy!

I couldn't wait; I hurried after her. I found her entering her hotel upon the arm of a smart, dark-haired fellow. I wrote her a letter asking for an appointment next afternoon at three o'clock.

At three o'clock I was at her hotel. Her maid handed me a letter. I opened it.

"I am sorry, Arthur, but I have an engagement with Mr. Clements this afternoon," I read. "Perhaps some other time will do? I am leaving this evening for—"

I dashed the letter upon the floor and strode out of the room. I had reached the front door of the suite when I heard a voice calling me. I looked back. There stood Lucy at the door, dressed all in white and looking like a saint.

"Oh, Mr. Bowen, I didn't go out after all. I had a headache," she said. "What was it you wanted to see me about, Arthur?"

I reached her in four strides.

"Lucy," I said, making no bones about it. "I have found out that I love you. Will you marry me and let Uncle Jabez go to—to the deuce?"

I was so keyed up that I didn't know what I was saying. She put her arms round my neck and laid her head down on my shoulder and cried.

"Oh, Arthur," she said two minutes later, "do you know I have loved you all the time?"

So we were engaged, and we took the train back to town next day to see Mr. Coleworth. Mr. Coleworth came out of his office at once and led us back into a cozy corner beside a real, old-fashioned fireplace.

"So you two young people have found out that you are in love with each other?" he asked quizzically.

"Yes, and we are going to get married," I answered.

"Oh, pshaw!" said Mr. Coleworth. "I'm afraid that the capital must go to the third party now."

"Who is the third party?" I demanded savagely.

Mr. Coleworth turned round. Mr. Stokes," he said, "to be frank with you, it was with my connivance that he put that clause in his will. He wanted you to get married and thought that was the best way to bring it about."

"Well, he's had his wish," I answered angrily. "Who gets the money now?"

He pulled the will out of a drawer and read:

"If the said parties shall marry, then I bequeath the said property to the first-born issue of the said marriage to be shared among all the issue of the said parties, the principal to be held in trust for the said legatees by the parties aforementioned."

That was the time Lucy looked very hard at the wall-paper.

The Scrap Book

NO OCCASION TO GIVE UP

Was Still a Chance for Golfer to Get the Ball on His Way From Starting Point.

The fat man decided to try golf as a weight reducer. Armed with four clubs, a ball, and a caddie, he marched off to the links. The caddie placed the ball upon the tee. Then, with a terrific swing, the fat man whirled his club through the air.

But the little white ball still stayed smiling on its tee, while the club, meeting mother earth, broke into splinters.

"Give me another club, boy!" said the fat man.

Alas! Club No. 2 shared the fate of club No. 1, club No. 3 emulated the evolutions of club No. 2, and club No. 4 flew into a hedge.

"What would you do now?" asked the golfer, wiping his forehead, as he turned in desperation to the caddie.

Holding out the empty bag, the youngster replied: "Don't give in, boss! Give it a swipe with this!"

GIVES NEW TURN TO CHARITY

Wealthy Australian Left Bequests Meant to Encourage the Healthy and the Young.

A wealthy Australian squatter, Peter Mitchel of the Upper Murray district, has left £500,000 pounds for various public purposes, says the Living Age. One third of his estate is to be devoted to married women not exceeding thirty years of age, British subjects and bona fide residents of the commonwealth of a white race, and not the offspring of first cousins.

They are to be selected on a basis of physical excellence, cheerfulness of disposition, knowledge of the protestant Bible and skill in housekeeping and domestic economy.

The rest of the estate is devoted mainly to prizes for military and naval competitions. The donor agrees that gifts for the weak, sick and ailing are commendable, but believes that more lasting good is accomplished by encouraging the healthy and the strong.

Lived With Heart Exposed.

With his heart exposed to the eyes of the hospital surgeons a man in New Orleans lived for 26 hours. While he was working in a coffee-grinding plant his left sleeve was caught in a machine. His arm was mangled, and a piece of flesh the size of a man's head was torn from his breast, leaving his heart exposed, the ribs directly over that organ also being torn away. The fact that the injured man lived for so long after the accident is stated by physicians observing the case to be one of the most remarkable ever recorded.

GRATEFUL WOMEN

Gratitude and appreciation for health restored by that good old fashioned root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is what prompts so many women from all parts of the country to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., the letters of praise which we publish from time to time. Women who have always had their health cannot realize what it means to others, many of whom have suffered months and even years from such ailments, and are now well and happy through the use of this natural restorative, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Adv.

The annual St. Louis county Farm Bureau picnic was held last Saturday at Maplewood. It was an old-fashioned basket dinner affair.

The second quarterly inquiry of the live stock survey work for Missouri 1921 shows that Missouri farms have on hand 3,005,000 cattle, 907,000 horses, 414,000 mules, 3,567,000 hogs, and 1,518,000 sheep. The findings disclose as cattle of all age being fed on farms 215,000, hogs 792,000 and sheep 182,000, which is a smaller number for each class than was on feed at the end of the first quarter according to the joint report issued here today by E. A. Logan and Jewell Mayes of the United States and State Departments of Agriculture. Missouri farmers are slow to begin fall cattle feeding in the face of low prices and also are reluctant to increase their operations in sheep, many of them having two wool clips on hand and another growing. More interest is shown in the feeding of hogs than any other live stock operation.

Select Seed Corn From Field

Probably no other single thing can be done on the farm which will give a higher return for the time and trouble taken than the field selection of seed corn, says R. T. Kirkpatrick of the Missouri College of Agriculture.

When it is carefully considered that 12 or 14 good ears of corn will plant an acre, that several bushels of good seed may be selected in one day by a man, and that properly selected dried and stored seed will nearly always give an increased yield of a few bushels and oftentimes an increased yield as high as 10 or 15 bushels per acre over that secured from crib selected corn, it can readily be seen that one is paid very well for the time spent in the selection.

Numerous experiments have shown the wisdom of the careful selection of seed corn. This selection cannot be properly done in the crib during the winter as corn is being fed to the horses or hogs,as is the common custom on most Missouri farms. For further information see your county agent or write the Missouri College of Agriculture.

Tach Day Means $9

If you ever hear of a boy or girl who wants to quit school when it is unnecessary;if you hear of parents who are thinking of putting their children to work when it is unnecessary, just bring these figures to their attention which have been based on an investigation made by Dr.A. Caswell Ellis, of the University of Texas, at the request of the United States bureau of education:

Every day spent in school pays the child $9.

Here is the proof, based on the wage scale of 1913:

Uneducated laborers earn on the average of $500 per year for 40 years, a total of $20,000.

High school graduates earn on the average $1,000 per year for 40 years, a total of $40,000.

This education requires 12 years of school of 180 days each, a total of 2,160 days in school.

If 2,160 days at school add $20,000 to the income for life,then each day at school amounts to $9.

Games for Farm Picnics.

A number of amusing contests are suggested by the Missouri College of Agriculture as appropriate for community picnics.

Hog Calling Contest. Let each candidate have one minute to demonstrate his best performance. Judge on volume, endurance, melody and fetching quality. Stage fright is not to disqualify the contestant unless it results in actual voice failure.

Caterpillar Race. Let five to a dozen boys, standing close together, straddle a stout rope, each boy holding tightly to the rope with both hands throughout the race. Have as many such teams as desired and let them run, say, 100 yards over several obstacles or uneven ground.

Blindfold Race. Get the crowd back leaving considerable room. Blindfold contestants on a line midway in the course. Whirl them around several times,then release them. The one who reaches the desired goal first is winner.

Newspaper Race. Two newspapers are given each contestant. Starting with a newspaper in each hand, the runner puts one paper down and stands on it while he lays the other down,etc. Distance 50 yards.
